

Readme file : All the procedure in this assignment has been followed as said in the document. We are attaching a readme file(this file), a basic file as said, two star files one for the situation where cache contains the keys and the other when cache doesnot contain the keys. These basic and star files contain all the python codefiles required and also the pcap files required along with the essentials which were present already. Along with these we are adding a report which briefly explains the analysis of the two tables/databases we got. It also has a brief description about why there might be these type of irregularities in the table data we got.

I assume we have explained everything clearly, but if something is unclear please mail us or message us on +91 9550774500 or +91 9392615162.
